Passenger Eligibility : Production Car Autotests

The matter of passenger eligibility has been raised with the MSA a couple of times this summer and it is therefore appropriate that we issue a clarification to address the confusion.

This clarification applies to all Production Car Autotests(PCAs) other than those that are run under the special provisions of a Taster Day (D4.5.6.) where a special provision is made.

PCAs are the only form of Autotest that permits the carriage of a passenger and indeed it as a mandatory requirement to do so. M13 which applies to Autotests, states that "Before the start, cars and Competitors (including any Passengers) must be checked for eligibility." and from which it is clearly the intention of the regulation that a passenger in this case is a competitor. As a competitor the passenger must comply with exactly the same requirements as those for the drivers so entered. This shall include age, health, membership of an invited club/association/championship, and where appropriate an MSA Competition Licence.

Of course in all cases, including Taster Days, all competitors must sign on in the normal way.
